How we manifested our Feng Shui dream house

by Roseline Deleu

Moving regularly has been part of our Australian journey. Different houses, different vibrations and sometimes – why not – a few Feng Shui challenges ☹️. Everything in life is a lesson if you allow it to be... and we did.

We spent our two last years in Brisbane in 2 different 'Queenslanders' (for those who are not familiar with this expression, a 'Queenslander' is mainly a wooden house on stilts often with wooden floorboards and wooden walls). Being a 'Metal 6' this was not the best combination for me and I felt very drained physically and emotionally.

Two months before the end of our leasing contract, we decided where to move next and we chose 'The Gold Coast' so we could discover and enjoy another part of Australia.

As we started our 'de-cluttering-before-moving' process, we went through some decoration magazines from which we cut off pictures of our dream home. We 'blue tagged' them on the fridge: nice kitchen, a swimming pool, a lovely rendered brick house etc... We then wrote the list of all our 'home' wishes including some important details such as: a recent and comfortable house, near the water, close to a biking distance from school, no carpet, possibly with a swimming pool, nice neighbours, one hour away from an international airport, close to the highway all this for a reasonable rental price. Then, we let the universe deal with our list. (Yes, this may sound like Mary Poppins story).

Five weeks before the end of the lease, I drove to the Gold Coast for work. I decided to have a look in the areas surrounding our son's new school. Nothing exciting seemed available for the dates that we were supposed to move, those houses were not even listed yet! Anyway, I visited a few... and this is when the universe took over.

One of the real estate agent told me that she 'was not sure about the carpet'. We made an appointment and I visited one unit in a complex with a swimming pool. Unfortunately that place was fully carpeted. NO-sorry... but walking back to the car, I spotted the reception of the complex. I walked in and randomly asked if they had anything 'without carpet'. The lady looked at me strangely (I must be the only one asking for this) and said, "Yes we have one, it is just available from today, would you like to have a look?" Of course! And here it was... exactly what we wished! Yes, a brick house, tiled, large swimming pool in the complex, sauna, steam room, tennis court... in other words, a resort! We now feel on permanent holiday and have the lovely neighbours mentioned on our wish list too.

What about work Roseline? Is the Gold Coast better for you? Well, statistically speaking it takes 2 years to get established and I know this. I still have plenty of work in Canberra (where I spent my first 7 years in Oz), so I fly there regularly. My work takes me worldwide but for the moment I often drive to Brisbane where my reputation is growing and where the word of mouth is spreading. New clients on the Gold Coast area are enquiring and booking smoothly in between my many interstate visits.

My best suggestion for those of you who are thinking of moving soon... follow the above suggestions and manifest your feng shui dream home too.

Yes we are happy ☺️

Manifestation Tips

- Write the list of YOUR wishes and sign it
- Cut the pictures of what YOU like and display them
- Focus only on what YOU want
- Trust in the Law of Attraction and only think positively
- Be grateful (daily) for what you already have

A 'good feng shui' souvenir from U.K.

I've been making coloured glass panels. I had the idea of a souvenir of Cambridge that is actually made in Cambridge (U.K.) - and came up with this punting image, which I made into a house number for Quick & Liz - as they live real close to the river.

Out of Maureen's catalogue these water lilies peaceful glass panel is a great décor idea to bring the 'Water' element onto your premises and encouraging good Chi in your home.

The punt/boat illustrated on the left stands for the symbol of someone who is ready to move forward in life. Display this near your front door and give a boost to your life!

House Numbers

by Roseline Deleu

Is there a 'bad' number for a house?

Well to this question I would answer NO.

To my belief and understanding, you choose the house where you feel comfortable and that has the best possible surroundings and rooms lay out for you at that specific time of your life.

If you are concerned with the house number, keep in mind that each number corresponds to a certain vibration. The number where you are living now, has the vibrational energy that you need in this particular time of your life. The day you are ready and learnt your lesson in this house, it is time to move and enjoy another vibration.

To work our your number, reduce your house number to one digit.

Example: Unit 206/62 becomes (2+0+6+2+6)=16 then -> 1+6=7

House # 7

The '7' area in the magic square stands for "Children and Creations".

When living in a '7' home, you will develop your sense of creativity and new ideas will flow easily. It is then time to put all these projects into action and allow them to manifest into your life!

A home with a '7' number can be a sanctuary for inner peace and retreat. This home can lead you to learning the importance of rituals and prayers.

A '7' home often attracts beauty and art.

If you desire a relationship, a '7' house is not the best to live in as there is a tendency of feeling alone and sometimes aloof in a seven vibration. Make sure that your sector '2' is present .

If sector '2' is missing or if this sector is filled with the wet areas (bathroom, toilet and laundry) your relationship (if any) will be struggling. When single in a '7' house with sector '2' missing, it will be hard to find your life partner.

More house numbers to be continued in the next newsletters editions...

My feng shui Fairy Tale Story

by Christiana Rose

Hi Roseline

Thank you so much for your consultation yesterday. Scott and I got so much from it.

I did this collage and painted its mandala in January 2006. After doing your assessment sheet it showed that my 'money' sector need boosted. I couldn't agree more. So I worked with my affirmations and then set about to create my new collage.

I was curious as to why relationship images and sexuality was coming up in the poster in reference to money. Hmm.

In February a man came into my life and started treating me like a princess. (you can recognize Princess Mary and Lady Diana in my collage too).

He took me to very expensive places and was very generous with his money. I would have roses arrive at my door, cakes arrive at my work etc. He was a good best friend. At the Mind, Body, Spirit Festival late last year I was told by a medium that I needed to travel overseas particularly to Europe on a spiritual pilgrimage. I thought there was no way I could do this. To cut a long story short, this man paid for my daughter and myself to travel to Europe and the UK to do the spiritual work I was asked to do. We were treated to the best of everything. I felt like a princess. I had the constant feeling that a red carpet was put out for me where ever I went. I had the experience of being very abundant and I did not have to do anything other than be in gratitude every day. After the trip he decided to leave my life.

Later in the year another man came into my life who is now my partner. He is kind, gentle and my very best friend whom I trust 110%. Since we met I have gained a job that pays me more than I have ever been paid before. In turn I have contributed enormously to the company with skills that have been dormant for many years. This will now set the space available for me to do the writing I have been longing to do. I now can go to the gym to get fit and care for my body in a healthy way.

There are still some things to manifest but it has been a wonderful abundant year to which I am very grateful.

Getting Healthier after our Feng Shui consultation

by Marianne

Hi Roseline

Nathan is getting back on track since you Feng Shuied the house, he had been stuck for a little while. I think between the change in the house and the things you said to him about how bad the office is for his health, something has shifted for the better.

Like I mentioned at the seminar he did get a full check from the doctor and is waiting for some blood test results at the end of the month. But he has been a lot more motivated, sticking to his diet again and exercising regularly since speaking to Jeff. I also think the fact that Jason said he saw Nathan doing some work for a big organisation and being recognised gave him a bit more faith in himself. Your talk at the "Kick Start 2007" seminar also helped him understand something's you had said at the house a little more too he said. All these reasons was why I wanted him to go to the seminar so it was all worth it.

Nathan has been looking at other offices and is always asking me if 'Roseline' would think this was a good feng shui type office :) So I am sure we will contact you once we have seen a few places and can afford to move his office. We will be moving house in August probably too so if we don't end up see you at a seminar I am sure we will catch up then.

I hope all is well with you and thanks again, have a lovely day.
Cheers

Sector '3' of the magic Square is also about "Respect and Past" by Roseline Deleu

Surround yourself only with items that you love and gifts that you fully enjoy.

Too many of us keep un-wanted presents 'just-in-case' the person comes for a visit..

Isn't the idea of a present to offer something to someone and then let go? That is the process that both the donor and the receiver should follow... then NO excuse to clutter our place with undesired items, souvenirs and knick-knacks.

After all my years of consulting, I realised that many people have issues getting rid of photos. Past memories are treasured in the old photographs and nowadays the number of pictures increases amazingly with the digital pictures technology.

What could you do?

1. Around the house

- Display ONLY a few recent pictures on your walls
- Avoid pictures reminding you of sad

events and souvenirs

- The picture hanging above the others is considered in the "power position" - in other words, if the children pictures are displayed higher than the parents... kids are ruling the house

- If you keep the kids baby pictures on display, your children will keep behaving like the age they had on the photographs

- Do not display the wedding picture of your parents if they divorced

- To keep harmony and balance, display the same number of pictures of each member of the family (one is often enough) OR one full family picture will have the same effect

- To show respect for elders in the family, it would be a good idea to display a picture of them in the sector 3 of the home—or sector 3 of the living area.

2. Sort your albums

- Go through your numerous albums once a year and enjoy your good memories

- Before digital pictures, we were tempted to keep all the prints... now it is time to use some of the not-so-good prints and create a family-friends fun collage and display it in sector 3 or 6 of the magic square grid (see page 2)

- When possible, discard pictures of past relationships, you will find easier to move on with your life.

3. Screen Saver

- firstly, only keep your best shots on file
- run a screen saver—random slide show of your life that will bring back some of your good memories

Now a good question for the ladies...

Just checking for my (anonymous) survey...

Do you still have your wedding dress?

Are you still married?

Why do you keep it?
